Book I: (En) BUILDING BRIDGES FOR EFFECTIVE ENVIRONMENTAL PARTICIPATION: THE PATH OF LAW CO-CREATION (Subtitle) The Chiquitano Multimodal Format for Disseminating the Escazú Agreement

Abstract: The book is a co-created result of the project ECOCARE (HKDIR UTF/2020-10084) and combines a methodological framework for the co-creation of knowledge as the inclusive legal method that allows integration of Western legal knowledge and co-creation knowledge with a co-created version of an International Environmental Agreement. The editors, also principal investigators of the project, have worked in cooperation with law students, researchers, and representatives of the indigenous Chiquitano People from Mato Grosso, Brazil. This book comprises five chapters organized as follows: CHAPTER I: The Foundations: ECO_CARE explores the central pillars of the ECO_CARE project, elaborating on the foundational ethics of its methodology, which is ultimately committed to decolonising research and education. In CHAPTER II: Legal Design and Visual Law: The Roadmap, an overview of the concepts of LD and VL will be provided in Section 1, as they are both relatively unknown, even amongst legal scholars. In Section 2, the chapter illustrates the steps that put LD into practice through the application of VL techniques. In CHAPTER III: The Stages of the Comic Book Co-creation and the Restitution to the Chiquitano Indigenous People, we delineate how the steps described in the previous chapters have been applied to the co-creation of the comic book and the transformation of the Escazú Agreement into educational and learning materials and the restitution to the Chiquitano Indigenous people, and finally, the restitution of the book to them. In CHAPTER IV, we share some reflections on the importance of developing a Spanish version of the book in comics and of the methodology followed to co-create it. CHAPTER V contains the book in comics, as the tangible result of the process of co-creation, by making use of LD and VL.
