Subject: Application for funding of 10 weeks research stay at Cambridge University, United Kingdom to be undertaken in 2023.

Dear Sir,

I am writing this application concerning the funding of my upcoming research trip to Lauterpacht Centre for International Law (LCIL), Cambridge University, United Kingdom from 03\07\2023 to 15\09\2023 (as per the acceptance letter received from LCIL). The LCIL is one of the most prominent international law research centres in the world. Over the years the LCIL has developed expertise in cutting-edge multi- and interdisciplinary research, which is reflected in its research output. Considering my research project also transcends various boundaries between international law, legal philosophy, international relations, and critical legal theories, the expertise offered by the centre may prove to be immensely useful. Additionally, the LCIL houses one of the most prominent libraries in the world dedicated to international law. Considering some parts of my thesis relies upon historical research and historiography of various aspects of the UNCLOS seabed regime, the LCIL may be one of the best libraries for the purpose of my research. Further, to the library, it is important to emphasise that I have planned to undertake the legal historical research part of my thesis at LCIL, because my external supervisor Prof. Surabhi Ranganathan, is a legal historian based at the LCIL. Thus, my stay at the LCIL would immensely contribute to the progression of the research work, which would ultimately propel my thesis towards completion.

LCIL is one of the most sought-after research visit centres in the world, therefore the centre has a continuous flow of experts visiting the centre at any given time. I perceive this as an excellent opportunity to meet and get to know eminent scholars, from the point of view of future collaborations. This includes potential collaborations with the faculty members of Cambridge University, who are part of the LCIL.

Kindly keep in mind that I shall be in my 3rd year of PhD research during the planned stay. And I shall be travelling to Cambridge with my family (wife). I shall be grateful if you could grant me the funding for undertaking the planned visit to Cambridge, as this would immensely contribute to the development of my research and eventual completion in due course.

Best Regards,

Mazyar Ahmad,
PhD research fellow,
NCLOS, Faculty of Law,
UiT.

To whom it may concern,

This is to express my pleasure in supporting Mazyar Ahmad's funding application for his research stay at the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law (LCIL), Cambridge University, United Kingdom in 2023 as part of his research towards the completion of the Ph.D. dissertation.

The LCIL library offers the latest publication, books, and other relevant documents on international law. Additionally, over the years LCIL has established itself as a centre committed to conducting multi- and interdisciplinary research in various areas of international law. Mazyar has expressed his interest in visiting the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law (LCIL), which considering the scope of his research may provide the adequate infrastructure, and the required academic environment for carrying out his research work. Importantly, Prof. Surabhi Ranganathan, who is Mazyar's other and external supervisor, is based at LCIL. Therefore, his visit would allow him to engage with her more and have sustained and beneficial exchanges during his research stay on topics falling under her expertise.

Based on the above considerations, I believe, that Mazyar's stay at LCIL, Cambridge University will benefit greatly from his research, and may prove instrumental in the completion of his Ph.D. dissertation.

Sincerely,

Prof. Vito De Lucia
